

SILLY STUFF

iOS devices can provide lots of fun for both the user and people who get to receive the results of, or participate in, those programs/apps that present an endless variety of creative projects I call “SILLY STUFF”.

Magic Mirror App

One of my favorite programs is called "Magic Mirror". Like some earlier image distortion apps, it allows the user to create funny-looking still images, but also allows creation of short video clips with both cleverly distorted images including altered sound.

When combining the funny face with the changed sound pitch, some really outrageously hilarious stuff can happen.

Try your hand at creating something silly, and see how much fun you can have.

Funny Movie Maker

Another app that provides me with hours of creative fun is... “Funny Movie Maker”.

You can add your lips and voice (with distortions in pitch) to anything from silly pic’s available in the app to photos in your own library or celebrity shots you’ve found on the internet.

Often I will combine silly photos I've created with "Magic Mirror" so I can add the lips and sound using "Funny Movie Maker" to make something extra special, for events like holidays or birthdays.

And putting a human voice and lips on animal pictures can be especially hilarious.

FUN GAMES

And you can combine your “silly” skills with some simple title slides created on your iPad or iPhone to make some fun projects for entertaining guests.

Just connect your “Keynote” presentation to your HDTV using Apple TV with Airplay and screen mirroring, or connect directly to the TV using an adapter with an HDMI cable.

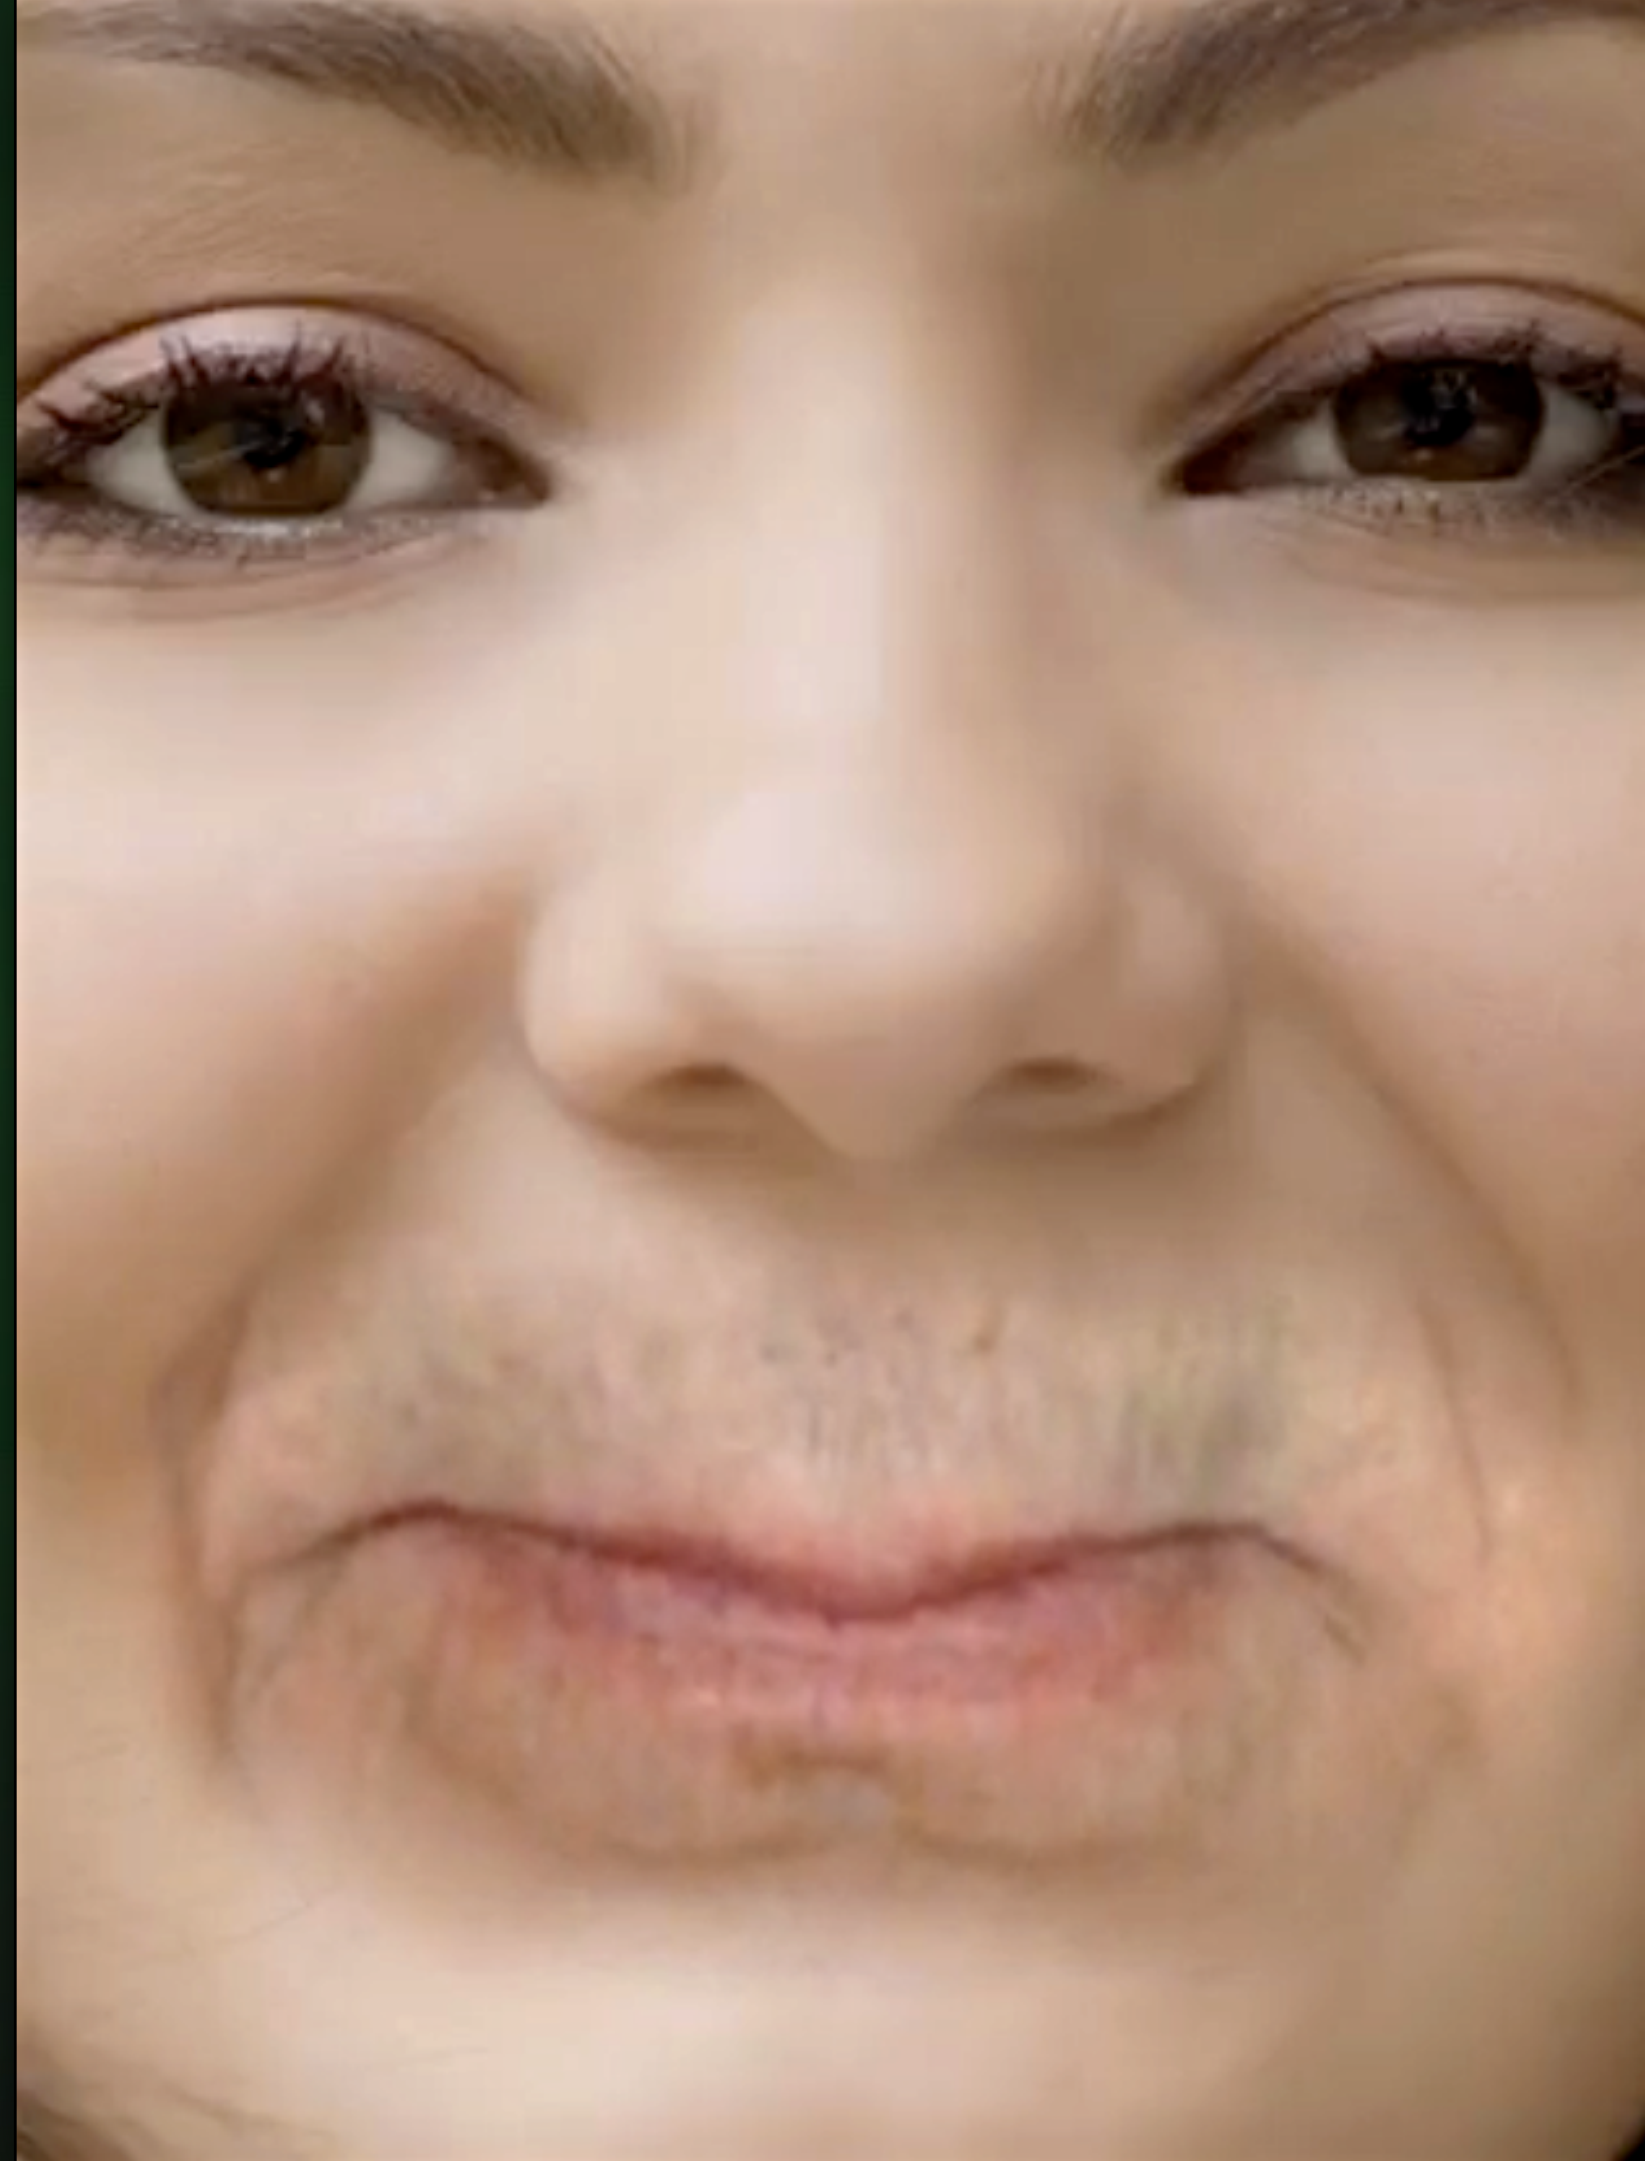

READ MY LIPS!

For example, I made up my own game that I call...
“READ MY LIPS”.

There are different ways in which one can play this game:

- * As a team activity
- * Individuals attempting to read video clips of someones silent mouthing of a message

Here I added my own lips mouthing a particular phrase to the face of a pretty young lady.

It's an example of combining a silly effect with a lip-read video clip.

Then I followed the clip with a title slide displaying the phrase that was used in the clip.

(See next slide.)

Boy Scouts of America

Another way you can use your iOS device to play a fun game when entertaining is to play “MAD GAB”.

You can go directly to their web site and try your hand at a few dozen examples. Connect your device to your HDTV, and your in business for having some fun.

I'll take care of you.

The game uses random words that, when said quickly, sound like common phrases.

I used cards from my existing game to create title slides for display on the TV.

Again, this can be played by choosing teams, or just by having everyone trying to guess the phrase.

There are so many fun apps out there that can entertain your silliest creative juices.

Just have at it, and have fun!
